STITES-HERNDON.

Hopkinsville Belle Becomes Bride Of Louisville Business Man Last Friday.

Miss Joy Morrison Herndon yesterday afternoon became the bride of Mr. Gervais Taylor Stites, of Louisville. The wedding was a brilliant church affair and was solemnized at Grace Episcopal church, the rector, Rev. Geo. C. Abbott, officiating. Messrs. Hiram Thomas, John Stites, M. H. Nelson, Jr., and Frank Brewer, of Princeton, were the ushers. Mr. Brooks, of Louisville, was the best man. Misses Mary Goldthwaite and Bet Ware, were the maids. Immediately after the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Stites took the afternoon train south for a bridal tour and will upon their return reside in Louisville. The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Herndon, one of Hopkinsville's prettiest girls. Miss Stites is a promising young business woman.—Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

League Busy Again.

The Epworth League has pledged another fifty dollars on the parsonage debt. The League is very economical. At the last social forty guests were entertained on the small sum of twenty-five cents.

HERNDON

Makes Wonderful Success in Hotel Business at Enid, Oklahoma—The Loewen, Beautiful.

The visitor to a city in every instance wishes to know what class of hotel accommodations that city can give. This one feature is one of the best recommendations a city, desirous of improving its condition can possibly have. If the visitor is well taken care of at a hostelry where accommodations, service and a welcome are good there is given him, his impression of a city is greatly enhanced. Great Enid is not at all lacking in this respect for there are few hotels in the country that offer better service and accommodations than does the Loewen.

This hotel was built over two years ago by Mr. Albert Loewen, whose aim it is always to have and give the best the country affords. At first many of the citizens of Enid thought that this hotel with its 100 elegantly appointed rooms, was entirely too large for the size of the city, but little did they realize that a hotel to render the service necessary especially in a growing city like Enid, should be several years ahead of the conditions of the city.

The present management took the house one year ago. Under the able management of Mr. H. W. Herndon who has spent his life in the hotel business this house has developed until it now has outgrown its capacity and the management have decided to add another story to the present building, increasing it 50 rooms making 150 in all, furnished with hot and cold water, steam heat and phone service.

The culinary service is one of the most attractive features of this house this being far beyond that of the ordinary Oklahoma hotel.

Mr. Herndon operated the Herndon hotel at Herndon, Ky., for six years, the Grayson Springs hotel, at Grayson Springs, Ky., the largest summer resort in Kentucky, and the Henrietta at Princeton, Ky., an experience which more than qualifies him to meet all demands of the most exacting and exacting guest of the Loewen. He is by far the most capable hotel manager Enid has ever had.—Enid Daily Works Too Hard.

Hardin Kinder, the express and freight deliverer of this city, is complaining of his health falling him. Mr. Kinder is a big, strong man, but works too strenuously. He has made quite a success of his business and owns a home in Breckinridge edition on Hudson street.

Roof Falls In.

The roof of the brick stable belonging to Oels's Hall fell in Saturday. The heavy snow weighed the roof down and broke the walls.

FARMERS

Stand By Pooling Agreement. Committee Appointed to Get Samples.

Hardinsburg, Jan. 11.—(Special.)—The Circuit Court room was full of farmers Saturday who voted to stand by the pooling agreement and to retain their selling committee notwithstanding attempted resignations. A committee was appointed to gather samples. Money said to, money here Tuesday when an attempt would be made to effect a sale. Ben S. Clarkson of Big Spring, agreed to be present and negotiations were to be opened with him for the sale of the entire pool. A meeting was set for today for the farmers to meet to confirm or reject the sale, which it was confidently expected would be made.

PROCEEDINGS

Or Adjourned Session of Fiscal Court That Convened in Hardinsburg on Saturday, December 18.

At a fiscal court continued from October 27, 1909, and held in the court house in Hardinsburg, Ky., on Saturday, December 18, 1909, in and for Breckinridge county, Kentucky. Present: C. H. Drury, T. M. Bates, John O'Reilly, Justices of the Peace, and H. DeH. Moorman, County Judge, presiding.

It is ordered by the court that the county Road and Bridge Supervisor pay whatever sum that now remains in the Road and Bridge Fund, less whatever is in his discretion necessary to leave in said fund for emergencies, to the Commissioners and Receiver of Breckinridge county and he is now ordered and directed to forthwith apply said sum so paid to outstanding indebtedness of the county for bridges, taking up the bonds and interest due. The County Judge will approve orders so issued and see that this order is promptly executed.

In the matter of the effort of the court to refund the Railroad bonded indebtedness of the Railroad Tax District of Breckinridge county, after hearing the report of Hon. John P. Haswell, Jr., and Judge H. DeH. Moorman, the committee heretofore appointed, and it appearing that there is great probability of the bonds being refunded at less rate of interest, on motion of Charles H. Drury and seconded by T. M. Bates, duly carried, it is ordered that said committee be, and same is retained under the order of appointment heretofore made and they are authorized and empowered to do any and all things in their discretion proper and necessary to refund said indebtedness at a lower rate of interest and they will request the County Judge to call a special term of this court at such time as they deem proper to hear any report or do any other thing they may desire in the premises, and they will make a report at the next regular term of this court, or at a called term, as they deem proper or necessary.

It is ordered by the Court that the following sums be and they are hereby allowed and appropriated to the persons below named respectively for the purpose mentioned.

W. F. Hook, arranging ballots for November election 1909	$31.30
W. F. Hook, list of liens and encumbrances for assessor	119.40
W. F. Hook, fees as County Clerk	42.60
John P. Haswell, Jr., County Attorney, pro tem, three days	7.50
Charles H. Drury, Justice of Peace one day	3.00
T. M. Bates, Justice of Peace, one day	3.00
John O'Reilly, Justice of Peace, one day	3.00

It is ordered by the Court that the proceedings at this term be published as under former orders.

Minutes read and approved and ordered that court adjourn.

H. DeH. Moorman, J. B. C.

KINDNESS

Displayed By Dumb Animals Writes Mr. Penick-Unusual Incident.

Dear Mr. Babbage: My attention was called to an incident a week ago that I think deserves mention.

At my father's home they have a large Maltese cat which is not only a pet there, but in the entire neighborhood. It has often shown extraordinary sense. W. P. Rommie, my brother-in-law has a Foxterrier dog which is a great pet too.

The cat and dog have always been enemies. Seemingly, each one jealous of the other until recently, an incident worked wonders in their attitude towards each other. A lady was passing the home accompanied by a large vicious dog that attacked our little dog just as soon as he saw him. The lady said she thought her dog would kill the little fellow in spite of all she could do, when suddenly the cat sprang upon the scene, leaped on the big dog with all its weight. The cat scratched and bit the big dog until he freed the little one. After that the cat and little dog ran back to the house as fast as they could and ever since that day have been good friends and get along fine together.

"CREEK FAT"

Damage On The Ohio River—Katie and Royal Suffer From Ice. Loss at the Falls Heavy.

Little Miss Virginia Cray wanted to know Monday morning as she crossed the city bridge, "What made the creek so fat?" "Ice and snow," answered little Miss Jane Lightfoot.

The creek was not only fat, but the Ohio river was crowded with heavy and large floes of ice. Sunday the boat "Royal," which broke loose at Alto, Ind., was caught at Tobinsport. It belonged to Dick Smith. Three persons were aboard and were unable to stop the boat. They were safely rescued at Tobinsport.

Captain Weatherholt said the large gorges of ice in the river made much work for him and he was up all night Thursday. "Katie" was damaged a little.

CURE YOUR KIDNEYS.

No Need To Take Any Further Risks.

Why will people continue to suffer the agonies of kidney complaint, back-ache, urinary disorders, lameness, encephalitis, languor, why allow themselves to become chronic invalids, when a certain cure is offered them?

Doan's Kidney Pills is the remedy to use, because it gives to the kidneys the help they need to perform their work.

If you have any, even one, of the symptoms of kidney disease, cure yourself now, before diabetes, dropsy or Bright's disease sets in. Can Cloverport residents demand more convincing proof than the following:

Mrs. Charles Stephens, 526 Clay St., Owensboro, Ky., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills, and believe they are a good remedy. I did not take them exactly as directed but they strengthened my back and relieved me of acute pain. I felt better, I would stop taking them instead of continuing their use until a complete cure was effected. I am now improved in many ways since using Doan's Kidney Pills and can recommend them to those suffering from kidney trouble."

An Elephant's Courtesies.
At the conclusion of a children's performance at Old Middum an elephant proceeded along a narrow road with a pull in its trunk for the purpose of procuring water from a pump. A little girl climbed to get in the animal's way, and the road being not wide enough to accommodate his substantial body, the elephant laid down the trunk and gently lifted her to a place of safety, afterward resuming his journey to the pump for the water. -Westminster Gazette.

ROY OF LIVING WITHOUT COUSINS

Carthage Woman's Scheme to Solve Servant Problem.

LARGE ROOM FOR CHILDREN.

A House Has Been Rented and a Co-operative Kitchen Established where the Members Go Daily For Meals and Share the Expense.

The co-operative kitchen founded recently by women in Carthage, Mo., has passed the experimental stage and will now have a permanent institution.

A number of women who had been troubled for some time by the problem of finding a few months to pool their interests, or, rather, troubles, and endeavor by their combined efforts to secure servants and give them the best of the undertaking was first suggested, but those even most positive of the failure of the undertaking have now applied for admission to the dream kitchen, where servant troubles are only night terrors, delicious meals the regular order and contentment reigns supreme.

Furnished Their Own Tables.

It was decided to lease the Johns residence on South Garrison street and convert it into the co-operative kitchen. The large main room was divided into two smaller rooms were made the dining rooms. Each family furnished its own table and chairs, and every one chipped in to furnish the kitchen. The old floor, where servant troubles are only night terrors, delicious meals the regular order and contentment reigns supreme.

A regular menu is served, but should any family wish something special it is bought and charged extra. Mrs. John C. McGee, a leader in Carthage society, has been appointed to supervise the cooking and to act as the manager of the institution. Each member bears her part of the expense.

An Opportunity For Gossip.

The social side of the kitchen is one of the most pleasing of the institution. Members are friends, so an exchange of greetings—possibly gossip—thrills daily is not to be despised by the women, while the husbands discuss the latest news of the north pole and the probable weight of Jim Jeffries at the time he goes into the ring.

The children of "the kitchen" of whom, by the way, there are a great many, can visit and play on the lawn. But, whatever the minor virtues of the kitchen may be, the most important served by neatly dressed girls, prove the greatest and most infinitely enjoyable feature of the institution.

PLAN TO STOP SMUGGLING.

Dealers in Gems Form Association to Aid Authorities.

To stop the smuggling of gems, especially diamonds and pearls, a movement has been begun in the Maiden Lane district of New York city. Thirty dealers in the district have formed an association for the purpose of co-operating with the federal authorities in running down all smugglers, whether dishonest dealers or returning tourists.

One of the means proposed for eliminating the gem smugglers or at least curtailing their activities is the formation of a new club to combine business with social facilities. The proprietors of the institution, the premises of which are in Piccadilly, London, have called it the London club. In addition to the ordinary club rooms, there will be a "business reception room," where members can discuss business with each other. Room will occupy the wall space, on which, by permission of the secretary, the details of business transactions in which members desire co-operation will be displayed.

ANTI-CHRISTMAS CLUB.

Five Dollar Fee For Assurance of Immunity From Gifts.

July 10 St. Nicholas will have his troubles when he goes to Cleveland, O., in 1910—that is, if the anti-Christmas club movement grows. It has been inaugurated by Dr. John Mohr. The idea is for an organization to be known as the "Anti-Christmas club," the purposes of which shall be to curtail, not absolutely eliminate, the traditional habit.

The membership fee of $5 will entitle members to cards assuring them immunity from promiscuous rivers. The fund raised by the fees is to be used for charitable purposes exclusively.

Novelty in London Club Life.
The fact that in all existing clubs it is against the rule to use the premises for business purposes has suggested the formation of a new club to combine business with social facilities. The proprietors of the institution, the premises of which are in Piccadilly, London, have called it the London club. In addition to the ordinary club rooms, there will be a "business reception room," where members can discuss business with each other. Room will occupy the wall space, on which, by permission of the secretary, the details of business transactions in which members desire co-operation will be displayed.

"I Am Glad"

writes Mrs. Ethel Newlin, of Liberty Center, Ind., "that I began to take Cardui, and I will never forget it. I cannot praise Cardui too highly for what it did for me. Before I began to take it, I was very bad color, suffered great pain and weighed only 105 pounds. Now I have a good color, do not suffer and weigh 125 lbs."

The Woman's Tonic

Beware of strong, noxious, mineral drugs, that sink into your system like lead to the bottom of a basin of water. Cardui is purely vegetable and contains no poisonous minerals or dangerous drugs. It is perfectly safe and harmless, for use by old and young, and may be taken, as a tonic, for months, without any possible harmful effect. Try it.

VALUE OF GOOD ROADS

How One Kansas Community Learned a Lesson.

THE EXPERIMENT A SUCCESS.

Government Expert Shown What a Composition of Sand and Gumbo Would Do When Properly Handled. Many Benefits Realized.

Until recently the farmers south of Dodge City, Kan., were not to all sorts of inconvenience getting to town with their crops for market. In that section of Ford county is as good wheat land probably as can be found in the state. The owners of these lands are for the most part Germans, and their success in raising large crops was proverbial. But they had one particular legitimate complaint: That the condition of the road between their farms and Dodge City.

For about two and one-half miles the main county road "sifted" through the sand. This sand hill road was about the worst to be found in that section. There were places in which the wheels sank into the sand halfway to the axle, and the remainder of the distance was most difficult of passage. In the places where the sand was deepest an empty wagon drawn by a team had hard work getting through. There was only one time when this road was in a fairly good condition, and that was directly after a hard rain. It would then pack itself hard. But this good condition would last only a day or two, and as rains are not overfrequent in this part of the state the sand hill road was bad nearly the year around. The citizens of Dodge City realized that they were confronting a serious problem, for many of the farmers were threatening to move away.

They appealed to Representative Edward H. Madison, who became interested. He went to the good roads bureau of the department of agriculture in Washington and asked that a road expert be sent to Ford county. The request was immediately granted. W. L. Spoon was sent to Dodge City. After looking over the sand hills he made this reassuring statement:

"Your people can have as good roads as anywhere in the country and with as little expense as anywhere. I'll show you how to build 100 yards of good road between the worst sand, and with that lesson you can continue it."

In the low places in the sand hills Mr. Spoon found close to the proposed road a gumbo-like soil which he mixed with 75 per cent of sand. This mixture he constructed a road that after a hard winter and almost constant travel is still like a race track.

The proposed road was 100 yards wide and 100 feet deep. The center stakes and side stakes set at the required distances. The road surface was plowed, disintegrating every part of the sand. The sand was then separated into two grades and was again used, this time outside the stakes. Three furrows were thrown to the sides, making a brace to hold the clay in the roadbed. On top of the clay bottom in the road trench were spread sand and gumbo, care being taken that no grass or roots were left in it. The mixture of sand and gumbo was placed so as to shed the water. Time hardens the gumbo land mixture. This 100 yards of experiment waked up the farmers and the city folk of Dodge. Immediately two and one-half miles additional road were constructed. For the winter the road was in perfect condition, and the farmers in other parts of the county are building similar roads.

"What benefit has been derived from this road improvement?" was asked W. J. Fitzgerald, lieutenant governor. "That's hard to answer," he said, "because the benefits have been so many and varied. The town people have had an increase in business, and the farmers have made more on their produce because of the ease in which they get their stuff to market. But, above all, the farms south of town, whose owners had to depend upon the old road, have increased in value 25 per cent. This is not an estimate, but founded upon the transfers actually made with heavy loads on narrow tires. Our people, who a year ago were dependent and saw no remedy for the bad road conditions, are now enthusiastic good roads builders."

A Wretched Mistake

To endure the itching, painful distress of Piles, there's no need to listen. "I suffered much from Piles," writes Will A. Marsh, of Siler City, N. C. "I'll get a box of Baileys' America Salve, and was soon cured." Burns, Boils, Ulcers, Fever Sores, Eczema, Cuts, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, and before it. 25c at Severs Drug Store.

How to Avoid Making Ruts.
Serious damage soon results from the common practice of driving in the track made by preceding vehicles.

How to Avoid Making Ruts.
Serious damage soon results from the common practice of driving in the track made by preceding vehicles. Ruts would surely, if ever, appear on a well constructed road if drivers would vary their track even a few inches. It is not to be noticed that, no matter how deep the rut, it will disappear when a sharp turn occurs as the horses vary their spurs around the wheel of the car. This is one of the principal causes of deterioration of a macadam road and could easily be remedied with a little care on the part of the drivers.

Bad Highway Building.

A road engineer puts it this way: "There ought to be a law to stop building highways. This idea that the outer edge of a highway—soft, dirt and stone, all—should be thrown into the center of the road ought to entitle the people who do it to ninety days in jail."

A lazy liver leads to chronic dyspepsia and constipation—weakens the whole system. Doan's Regulax (25 cents per box) corrects liver, tone the stomach, cure constipation.

CONVICT ROAD BUILDERS.

Inmates of Georgia Prisons Beautifying Highways.

The roads of Swainsboro, Ga., are fast being covered from vesting sand into level beautiful turnpike city roads. The county chain gang, which is now about fifty strong, including thirty felony convicts, Emanuel's quota of the state convicts, is doing the work in road building, under the supervision of M. B. Boatright, who has had much experience in practical road building.

However, the people of the county, while awakening somewhat to the fact that they must be up and doing in matters pertaining to roads if they would keep abreast with their neighboring counties, still do not show the proper interest in the construction of their roads, or, rather, in the keeping up of the roads after they are built by the chain gang. There seems to be an idea abroad that it is the chain gang's purpose to keep up the roads as well as to construct them, and this idea must be eliminated before a thorough good road movement can be installed and substantial improvements made on the county's highways.

THE INSURGENTS OF CONGRESS

Who and What They Are and Why This Body of Progressive Republicans Was Formed

Causes For Which They Are Fighting and Side Lights on the Leaders of the Movement

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

THERE are several questions, pertinent and impertinent, that arise concerning the insurgent movement. The political student asks, "What is an insurgent?" The general public, always interested in personalities, inquires, "Who is an insurgent?" Uncle Joe Cannon, in more or less bewhiskered and unsterilized language, rises to the question, "Why is an insurgent?" To answer all three queries adequately would require several books. But as I have not time to write the books and nobody else would have time to read them we will have to boil it down.

To begin in the good old ordinal way: Firstly, what is an insurgent? It depends on who is giving the answer. If it were Robert Marion La Follette he would doubtless reply, "An insurgent is the noblest word of God," having in mind, perhaps, one of our sacred insurgents. If it were Cannon who was giving the opinion. But wait! There are postal laws in the United States against printing and disseminating certain kinds of words, and I have no desire to visit either myself or the editor into jail. Either the La Follette or Cannon idea would probably be biased. To take a perfectly dispassionate view, an insurgent is one who wants to change the rules of the house in which he is serving; also the rulers. He has a passion for ripping into Cannon and Aldrich. He wants to revise the tariff downward—emphasis on the "down"—or at least he wants to do it to all the tariff that does not affect his district. Finally

First he had to convert the state of Wisconsin, and when that job was done to his satisfaction he started in to convert the entire nation. This work is still in process. At about the time La Follette was making the Wolverine railroads and regulars jump sideways Albert Baird Cummins was raising the stand patters to see red with his Iowa idea. The careers of these two progressive leaders have many features in common. Both had to fight the machine in their own states, both were elected to the governorship for three terms, and both while serving as governor were elected to the United States senate. Both are effective speakers, and both deal with facts rather than figures of speech. The difference in their personal appearance and manners, however, is as striking as the resemblance in their careers. Both are fighters, but Cummins is courtly and has gained not only respect but admiration. While La Follette is pugnacious, with bristling mane.

Other senators that have broken out of the reservation are Jonathan P. Dolliver, who did not always insure, but was once time enough to cut out of one's hand, then grew excited and resolute when Cummins laid a back fire behind him; Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, who has always been an orator and is becoming a statesman; Joseph L. Bristow of Kansas, who drove the crooks out of the postoffice department and is ready to perform the same service for any other crooked bunch that gets in his way; Kruke Nelson and Moses Edwin Clapp of Minnesota, and the decline of correspondences, for he was a machine extended to their top pieces, inside and outside. Thus La Follette wears a pompadour and Murdock a halo the color of a brick. Carrying out the correspondence, the senate inscription bristles, while that in the house is red headed.

The Red Badge of Courage.

Murdock himself is worth a newspaper story and probably will get whole pages of such before he is done with the game. He is himself an editor and was one time a Chicago reporter. In those days he was a friend of President McKinley, who referred to him as "the brightest man in Kansas." When he went to Chicago young Murdock was working for $9 a week on his father's paper. Ashken for a while was turned down. Even though the old gentleman was then a celebrity in the Sunflower State, that fact did not prevent the cub from telling him that some day he would be "known as the father of Victor Murdock," in which he proved a better prophet than most politicians.

As an insurgent Murdock is good natured and usually succeeds in getting a laugh on his opponents. Beware the cheerful reformer! In preparing a sham the pin point of humor may be a better weapon than the big stick of argument. Perhaps the greatest service Murdock has rendered the American people was in exposing the railway mail graft. Of old time the mails were weighed seven days a week, but to get the daily average the total of seven days was divided by six, which resulted in a clear gift to railroads of about $5,000,000 a year. Murdock exposed the fraud, and although the house machine refused to correct it, President Roosevelt afterward did so.

The Valiant Thirty.

According to the list of house progressives furnished by Mr. Murdock himself, there are thirty in all—seven from Wisconsin, four from Minnesota, six from Iowa, three from Nebraska, two from Kansas, two from Ohio, two from Massachusetts and one each from New Jersey, North Dakota, California and Washington. A most important member of the group is Henry A. Cooper of Wisconsin, who presented the La Follette resolutions to the last Republican national convention and who received more votes for speaker of the house than any other insurgent. Another striking figure is Irvine L. Lenroot, a new member, who was speaker of the Wisconsin assembly before going to Washington. A third Wisconsin man of national note is John J. Esh, one of the authors of the present railroad rate law. William J. Cary, Arthur W. Cope, E. K. Morse and John M. Nelson make up the rest of the fighting seven from La Follette's state. One of the progressives from Iowa, the land of Cummins and Dolliver, is Elbert H. Hubbard, who has the name but nothing else belonging to the famous Philistine. Other Iowa insurgents are James W. Good, Gilbert N. Hargrett, S. E. Kendall, Charles E. Pickett and Frank P. Woods. From Minnesota, where Senators Nelson and Clapp uphold the insurgent standard, a quartet of house members have followed them—Charles R. Davis, Charles A. Lindbergh, Halvor Stenerson and Andrew J. Vested. Nebraska has one of the leaders of the house progressives in George W. Norris, formerly a district judge in that state, and two able members in E. H. Hinshaw and M. P. Kirkland. New Jersey furnishes Charles N. Fowler, the former chairman of the house banking committee, who has written open letters to Cannon until Danville was filled with flying epithets.

From Massachusetts hail Augustus P. Gardner, son-in-law of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who dares not Lodge swear that the house rules shall be amended whether the machine consents or not; also from the same state William C. Lovering. Ohio, home of the president, has two of the house insurgents in the persons of David A. Hollingsworth, a noted lawyer, and Adam B. Johnson. From Kansas Victor Murdock's companion in arms is E. H. Madison; from North Dakota comes Asie J. Groun; from California E. E. Hayes, one of the wealthiest members of the house, and from Washington state Miles Polindexter.

The Canonsque inquiry, "Why is an insurgent?" finds its answer in the supposed preponder of the question Cannon himself is the reason, or, rather, one reason. The progressives say they are into being because they want to make the house a deliberative body and carry out platform promises. I suspect that their real cause is deeper yet, being nothing less than the old fight between equal rights and special privileges.

Saved At Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Morris W. Ayers, of Transit Bridge, New York, when his life was wonderfully saved. "It was in a dreadful condition," he writes, "my skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing 40 pounds, growing weaker daily. Violent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine—Electric Bitters—cured me. I regained the 40 pounds lost and now am well and strong." For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. See at Sivers Drug Co.

Europe's Highest Village.

"The highest village in Europe" is the inscription on a postcard which shows a group of wooden cottages on a bleak hill, with no sign of vegetation in sight and having as a background a range of ice-covered mountains. The name of the place is Cuerners, in the Canton Valais. It lies 2,047 meters above the sea level, "where Monte Rosa raises its gigantic head into the clouds." The village consists of four families, and the latest census gives it a population of twenty-six. "The storms of spring and fall and the snows of the winter months," says the sender of the card, "make life a dreary one, and still the people look happy, and doubtless they are so."

Object Lesson in Good Roads.

A Glushbury (Columbus) rural free delivery carrier became tired of traveling the dirt roads on his route and, finding that he had no right to deliberate to road officials in regard to needed repairs, took a little of his spare time and had the fourth postmaster general advised on the subject. That official replied that if the roads were not put in repair at the earliest possible date—thirty days—the carrier can deviate from those portions of his route that are out of repair and inform the families residing on these roads that the department will not maintain rural service over any road that cannot be traveled by the carriers with facility and safety at all seasons of the year.

A Cure Not Guaranteed.

Toothache, that scourge of our common humanity, has many "cures." The following remedy, however, would appear to be worse than the disease. It is to be found in "Choice and Experimental Receipts in Physics and Chirurgery," as also Cordial and Distilled Waters and Spirits, Perfumes and Other Curiosities," a volume compiled by Sir Kenelm Digby and published in 1628: "With an iron nail raise and cut the gum from about the teeth till it bleed and that some of all the blood stick upon the nail; on drive it into a wooden beam, and leave it. After this is done you shall never have the tooth-ach in all your life." This is described as "a sympathetic cure for the tooth-ach."

THE CHIEF INSURGENTS IN CONGRESS.

and foremostly, and this is the immediate object of his being, he wants to change Cannon and Aldrich off the political map. If he is in the house of representatives—that an irony there is in that word "representatives"—he objects to the speaker being the whole works. He now regards the house as consisting of a number so large that there is not a type case in existence with figures enough to set it up, Cannon being represented by the figure "1" and the other 389 members by a long string of ciphers trailing after. That would be something like one million billion trillion quadrillion quintillion—oh, figure it out yourself!

My own view of an insurgent is that he is an honest man who by some mistake broke into congress. The other members do not know what to make of him. He knows what he would like to make of himself, but the speaker won't let him. That is the whole story. The insurgent wants to save the country and cover himself with glory, and here is this white whiskered tyrant with the gavel, this old man with the artillery name, who bars the way. It is enough to make a saint insurgent.

A Growing Army.

As to the question, "Why is an insurgent?" his name is legion. The political woods are full of him. Nobody is certain of his neighbor. He does not know who will insure next. Maybe it will be himself. There are those who think that every true Speaker Cannon lifts the table with his gavel a new insurgent springs into being. If this is true there will soon be millions of him. For a man of his years Uncle Joe certainly does maltreat that innocent wooden hammer. He could give points in the tattoo line to a snare drummer or to the active and incessant woodpecker. To be accurate, there are thirty in congress in the house and something like eleven in the senate. Yet I can remember the day when Robert Marion La Follette was laughing alone, who have put over a brand of insurance of no kind. He is a man of no account, though from a January blast off the northwest; Elmer J. Burkett and Noris Brown of Nebraska, who, coming as soon after Bryan, make no wonder. If the Platte country turns out nothing but smooth faced young orators who return to do things to the corporations; William Edgar Bernal of Idaho, who is such a handsome and mild looking man that no one would dream of his going up against the fierce and crafty Aldrich; the lowerting Hale and the astute and high browed Lodge; and Coo I. Crawford of South Dakota, who, it is said, is "going back into camp." This is the list of senate insurgents up to date, but no one knows when it will be enlarged. The powers that be are not always sure of putting a finger on Senator Burton of Ohio, while the elections to fill the vacancies occurring on March 4, 1911, may bring in several new progressives.

Cannon In Front of Them!

If there are mutterings in the senate, however, there is actual hideous rebellion, complicated by ghost dancing and several different kinds of war medicine, in the house. Senatorial courtesy has a way of smoothing war, wrinkled front until a fierce political contest looks like a perfectly decorous nuts' meeting. A struggle in the upper house that may involve millions of dollars and decide the political complexion of whole states looks about as exciting as a pink tea. But in the house it is different. There is perhaps a species of courtesy in the lower chamber, or what passes for such, but it is not so elaborate, oppressive and ponderous as that in the senate. In fact, the house courtesy is like that of the prize ring—the shake-hands-and-go-at-it kind. If we consider Senator La Follette the leader of the senate insurgents and Victor Murdock the chief of those in the house it is almost uncanny the way the two typify the character of the movement in their respective bodies. It recalls Sweden-

BURLEY TOBACCO SOCIETY TRUST

Is on Now--Boston Financier to Organize $50,000,000 Company--Lawson in Lexington

PRESIDENT LEBUS AGREES

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 10.—A people's trust is the weapon with which Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston millionaire, to "fight the Tobacco Trust," using the Burley Tobacco Society 1909 pool of 118,000,000 pounds of tobacco as the basis for the operations of the company which he proposes to organize at once with a capital stock of $50,000,000 the total holdings of the Burley Society to be bought by the company for cash at a fair price, roughly estimate at 20 cents a pound.
After a conference held by Mr. Lawson with President LeBus and the executive committee of the Burley Society at the society's headquarters here, and which began this afternoon and lasted until near midnight, his plan was heartily approved by the society's leaders, and will, of course, receive formal endorsement at the meeting of the district board of the society. This means the sale on for cash of the entire holdings in the Burley pool and the appearance in the business world of one of the biggest and most novel combinations ever launched in America.

Best Wishes to All.

What Tobacco Grower

Can Beat Archer?

P. P. Archer raised on twelve acres of ground, near Ekron, 11,600 pounds of tobacco. He sold it to Lou Gibson at $12 per 100 pounds straight. The whole crop brought $1,392.36. The News would be pleased to learn of any tobacco grower who can come up to this.

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fitchville, Ohio.—"My daughter was all run-down, suffered from pains in her side, head and limbs, and could walk but a short distance at a time. She came very near having nervous prostration, had begun to cough a good deal, and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills she has improved so much that she feels and looks like another girl."—Mrs. C. Cole, Fitchville, Ohio.

Irassburg, Vermont.—"I feel it my duty to say a few words in praise of your medicine. When I began taking it I had been very sick with kidney and bladder troubles and nervous prostration. I am now taking the sixth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find myself greatly improved. My friends who call to see me have noticed a great change."—Mrs. A. H. Sanborn, Irassburg, Vermont.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.
Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge.
Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

Table Niceties.
Try having a well polished table covered with clean cloths at breakfast and lunch and have meat but once a day, when you have the large, clean table cover on and a perfect but not elaborate meal. It will possibly repay you to wash, iron and embroider that old linen or duck skirt into round mats, one for each plate, one for each large dish and for every cup or tumbler. Lined oil and wax will polish your table, and two pretty candles, with sticks and shades, will give a dainty touch to the dinner table. The old silver center you have in the attic, cleaned with a mixture of whiting and ammonia and filled with thumb pots, green with ferns, will make an attractive and impressive ornament.

Wordsworth Up to Date.
She was a phantom of a fright
When first she gleamed upon my sight,
A shapeless shape in scanty dress
To haunt, to startle, to distress.
I saw her upon nearer view,
The things that woman had to do
She had to breathe a certain way
And walk and wail for miles each day.
She couldn't eat a thing that's good
For human nature's daily food,
But just some hygienic stuff
And stop before she'd had enough.
You'd think no one, however thin,
Her sheathlike garments could get in.
E'en if you understood the cut,
You'd be surprised at the result—
A perfect woman nobly gown'd,
With thin shape and thin inches round;
A stilette form, a halting gait,
And something like an angel's weight.
—Carolya Wells in Harper's Magazine.

Encouragement.
Artist—Yes, I keep pegging away.
Sometimes I get discouraged and say to myself, "What's the use?" Friend—Don't give up, old man. You can't do worse than you've done, you know.

BANK OF CLOVERPORT

Incorporated 1903

Capital, Surplus and Undivided Profits $22,600.00

WE wish all a Happy and Prosperous New Year, and desire to thank those who have heretofore contributed their patronage and influence. We have made our resolution to double our business during 1910, and looking forward to that mark, we earnestly solicit your account, whether it be large or small we will appreciate and give it our very best attention. It is better to keep adding to a small account than to be continually reducing a small one. If you are not already a customer, we invite your attention to our board of directors composed of successful business men who direct the affairs of this bank. Fully insured. Interest paid on time deposits. If our methods please you, tell others, if not, tell us, and we will see to it, the fault, if ours, will be corrected.

Tobacco Trouble Adjusted.

Owensboro, Jan. 11.—(Special.)—The trouble between John H. Nave, of Owensboro, and the poolers of Breckinridge county, has all been adjusted and deliveries were resumed at Hardinsburg yesterday. The trouble arose over the grading of the tobacco, the growers contending that the grading was too low, and Mr. Nave thinking it to high. Both sides were so displeased that the deal for the 4,500,000 pounds of tobacco was declared off last Friday, but the board of control of the Green River Tobacco Growers' Association got together in this city and adjusted matters to mutual satisfaction.

Chinese Nerve.
 The most common form of putting a man to death in China is taking off the head by the sword, and the extraordinary nerve of the Chinese is shown in this way more than any other. I have seen two men beheaded, one placed before the other. It took three strokes of the sword to kill the first, and while the operation was going on the second knelt down with his neck outstretched waiting his turn. He turned to the executioner and asked if he were going to be much longer with the first. Then, when the executioner came to him, he stretched his neck and waited for the blow, which completely severed his head from his body.

That Rubber Plant.
 Rubber plants which have been kept out of doors in summer are apt to become infested with worms which work in the soil. Unless the plant may not die, its growth is impaired.

A lover of house plants states that before taking to her rubber plants she saturates the soil with a weak solution of common mustard. This helps for worms to the surface, where they may be destroyed.

A teaspoonful of olive oil sprinkled about the roots of a rubber plant once a month will increase its growth. And a milk bath for leaves and stems will keep the plant dark and shining.

Mind Over Matter.
 "Much may be done," said the acute observer, "by an authoritative voice. Now, if a man says to a dog, 'Come here' with a note of absolute authority in his voice the dog comes immediately."

"Yes," said the traveler. "I've noticed it. And it is especially marked in oriental people. Why, when I was in Khalsandjura I heard a man say, with that authoritative note in his tone, 'O king, live forever,' and immediately the king lived forever."—Carlyle Wells in Success Magazine.

FAMOUS SLEUTH IN NEW ROLE.

Stories of Lieutenant Sheridan,
Who Will Guard Banks.
LONG A TERROR TO CROOKS.

Well Known Detective, Formerly of the New York Police Department, is Noted For His Amazing Ability to Photograph Features on Memory.

Owing to an affection of the eyes which interferes with his proper vision, Lieutenant William Patrick Sheridan, who is known to the law-breaking fraternity of two continents as "the man with the camera eye," recently retired from the detective department of the New York city police force to enter into partnership with William J. Burns, former secret service man, who is official guard of the 1,400 banks in the American Bankers' association, a trust formerly held by the Pinkerton agency.

The remarkable memory for faces that characterizes Lieutenant Sheridan's career made him celebrated in police circles the world over. His eye was unerring, and once the features of a criminal's face were bared by him, they were photographed in his mind, and he never made a mistake in identification. In this regard he was one of the most valued members of the city detective force, and as "the man with the camera eye" he was a terror to evildoers of every kind.

Famed by Criminals.
Lieutenant Sheridan got his start under Inspector Thomas Byrnes in 1887, a year after his appointment to the force. He was sent after the assistant cashier who had robbed the National Park bank of $165,000 and after a search of six months found his quarry in a hole in the famous London Assurance Co. as Standstead. He was instrumental in bringing hundreds of robbers, safe crackers and other criminals to justice. He especially excelled in his identification of criminals, every mark that served to identify them being photographed in his memory.

It is doubtful if there is another man in the United States who inspired more fear than did Sheridan in the hearts of criminals with records. No man in the history of the New York police department has been so quick to see through a disguise and to identify prisoners with pictures that had been taken five, ten and even twenty years before.

Many a city as far west as San Francisco came to learn that the appearance of Sheridan on a crowd was the surest means of ridding the city of a band of itinerant crooks. Sheridan was the man to whom the New York police department turned when all others failed to identify a prisoner. If Sheridan passed a prisoner it was taken for granted that his picture was not among the 20,000 or more in the rogues' gallery.

Conviction of a Bank Sneak.

A case where Sheridan made good with his camera eye is that of a bank sneak, who was arrested in Brooklyn in 1902 and who gave the name of William Murphy. Murphy's picture was taken in Brooklyn and sent over to Mulberry street for identification. "Why," said Sheridan, "that's Bob Suffrage; served five years in Liverpool, eight years in Brussels and two years in King's Island. He was arrested twenty-one years ago by Tom Mulvey, on Reynolds' staff."

Inspector Titus sent Tom Mulvey over to the Brooklyn street jail to identify the prisoner. Mulvey took a look at him and reported that he never had arrested him, never had seen him. Sheridan himself had never seen Bob Suffrage. All that he had in mind were the pictures that had passed through his hands, two or three out of a total of 200,000 in the gallery. Sheridan still insisted that the Brooklyn sneak thief was the notorious Bob.

Finally the prisoner was arraigned before Judge Aspinall and pleaded guilty. The judge said to him:

"Now I am going to ask you some questions, and if you tell the truth I'll take that into consideration in sentencing you. Is your name Bob Suffrage?" "Yes," said the prisoner, and then he went on to tell the tale of his life as served just as Sheridan had done from memory several weeks before.

How He Identified a Precious Pair.
Sheridan's friends love to tell how he identified Mott Haven red and Frank Cold. They had been taken in by chance on the Bowery in New York, and when the precious pair were stood up the next day he saw them. He got a year and eight months in Dannemora for blowing up a safe of the Standard Oil company in Syracuse.

The prisoner said he identified his identity, whereupon Sheridan said to a detective:

"Pull up his sleeve and you'll find 'W. I. U.' tattooed on his right forearm." The letters were there.

"Now look on his right hand and see if the cord on the little finger has not been shortened," said Sheridan, and it was. That was too much for Mott Haven red, and he confessed his identity.

That is but one instance in many which the detectives recall in illustrating Sheridan's wonderful faculty.

Stops Lameness

Much of the chronic lameness in horses is due to neglect. See that your horse is not allowed to go lame. Keep Sloan's Liniment on hand and apply at the first sign of stiffness. It's wonderfully penetrating and goes right to the spot—relieves the soreness—limbers up the joints and makes the muscles elastic and pliant.

Here's the Proof.

Mr. G. T. Roberts of Resaca, Ga., R.F.D. No. 1, Box 41, writes: "I have used your Liniment on a horse for several weeks and effected a thorough cure. I also removed a spavin on a mule. This spavin was as large as a guinea egg. In my estimation it is the best remedy for lameness and soreness."

Sloan's Liniment

Mr. H. M. Gibbs, of Lawrence, Kansas, R.F.D. No. 3, writes: "Your Liniment is the best that I have ever used. I had a mare with an abscess on her neck and one eye. Sloan's Liniment effected a cure. I used it around all the time for galls and small swellings and for everything about my horse and soreness."

Sloan's Liniment will kill a spavin, curb or splint, reduce wind pulls and swollen joints and is a sure and speedy remedy for fistula, swellings, founder and thrush.

"PASSING THE TRAY."

A New Custom in Fast-Enabling Restaurant.

One of the most attractive features of modern hotel and restaurant service is what is known as the "passing of the tray." This is now quite a matter of course at many fashionable establishments, whether the time be the luncheon, the tea or the dinner hour. On this tray is arranged an artistic assortment of morsels of pastry, each one on its own small dish of lace paper or the linen, the effect being often extremely decorative. When the tray is not in actual use it is usually placed in some conspicuous spot, where its contents may be examined as one enters or leaves the dining room. Such inspection is well worth while and is considered quite the proper thing. Examination suggests to the housewife an idea for her own table or for Thanksgiving week, when entertainments of all sorts are in order.

The foundation of these pretty little trifles is the recreation puff paste or French pastry. The very name strikes terror to the heart of the average housekeeper, who looks with helpless bewilderment at the daily little shells holding delectable mixtures of fresh or preserved fruit or of some perfectly prepared filling of cream. She invariably decides that she has no chance among the domestic impossibilities. But the tray of pastry at some fashionable hotel has been all the incentive necessary to make her set to work to undertake the work of duplicating some of the pretty things for her own home table.—Delineator.

Sleepless Nights

Many a night's rest is spoiled by frequent fits of coughing—sometimes severe—coming from the throat. That is so annoying as to prevent sleep. Kemp's Balsam will cure coughs if any medicine will, and will relieve the irritation in the throat. For all throat and lung troubles take Kemp's Balsam. Druggists sell at 25c. and 50c. a bottle.

Slave to Servants.

"I am very tired," said the fashionably dressed woman. "I have been working dreadfully hard all day. Doing what? Why, seeing to my servants—working for them. Didn't you know that the more servants you have the harder you must work? Certainly. I have to do all the shopping for my servants. I have to buy their uniforms, the caps and aprons of the maids and the clothing of the housekeeper. I have to see to the marketing too. Yes, and very often. In spite of the fact that I have a housekeeper, I must, or they will form a combine to rob me of everything I have. The housekeeper will get a rebuff that will enable her to retire in a few years. Then perhaps it is I who must hunt place then as housekeeper for some one else. Oh, yes, if you want to keep your position as mistress of a household of servants you must keep busy. You can't afford to let the grass grow under your feet to any great extent."

ATHLETIC TRAINING.

To Acquire an Excess of Muscle May Prove Injurious.

Nothing could be more elusive than the idea that by a sort of over-training a man can lay in a stock of health and strength upon which he can draw later while engaged in a secondary occupation. The truth is that big muscles and hypertrophied heart of the athlete are perilous possessions for the man who no longer has the time or the inclination for athletic work. When he stops the exercises by which he gained them, instead of simply returning to their original size they suffer for one or another of the many forms of degeneration and become incapable of performing their original services.

It is not quite true that all exercise is of a safe harmless, for it is well to be prepared for the meeting of life's little emergencies as well as its ordinary and daily demands, but it probably is true that the emergencies apart, every man does enough in going about his customary business and pleasure to keep himself in the condition which that business and pleasure demand and that anything besides is superfluous or injurious. That athletes take one into the open air is less a commendation of athletics than a dictum of our houses, offices and stores for lack of adequate ventilation. If all the air we breathe was pure air we could get along well enough with our open air at all. Any man who has the muscle he needs for doing the things he wants to do and should do has all the muscle he needs. To have To acquire more is a silly waste of time and perilous besides.—New York Times.

FEET OF SEA BEASTS.

Their Appearance When the Skin is Stripped Off.

Of all the feet that I have looked at I know only one more more ridiculous than the twisted flipper on which the sea lion props his great bulk in front, and that is the footed flipper which extends from the hinder part of the same. How can it be worth any beast's while to carry such an absurd apparatus with it just for the sake of getting out into the air sometimes and pushing oneself about on the ice and being eaten by polar bears? The porpoise has discarded one pair, turning the other into a pair of fins, and recovered a grace and power of motion in water which is not equaled by the greyhound on land. Why have the seals hung on to it? I believe I know the secret. It is the baby! No one knows where the porpoise and the whale carry their newborn infants—it is so difficult to pry into the domestic affairs of these sea people—but evidently the seals cannot manage it, so they are forced to return to the land when the cares of maternity are on them.

I have called the feet of these sea beasts ridiculous things, and so they are as we see them. But strip off the skin and, there appears a plant foot, with five digits, each of several joints, tipped with claws, nowise essentially different, in shape, from that with which the toad or frog does set out in a past too distant for our human imagination. Admiration itself is paralyzed by a contrivance so simple, so untranslatable and so sufficient for every need that time and change could bring.—Strand Magazine.

A Willing Scot.

Dean Ramsay has a story of that border hostility between English and Scots which used to go to halter lengths. A Scottish driver, returning from the south in particular had humor with the English, having done poor business, when he saw in Carlisle a notice offering a reward of £50 to any one who would volunteer for the unpopular task of hanging a condemned criminal. Seeing his chance he made for the jail and undertook the job. He was unknown there, he did the job and got his fee. As he was leaving he was taken as a burglar by the police and sent to the prison. He was doing for money what no Englishman would. But he answered, with a cheerful grin, "I'll hang ye 'at the price."

Ways to an Untimely End.

The catalogue of the ways and means employed by otherwise sensible people to incur the risk of disease and an untimely end include running to catch trolley cars, breathing rapidly through the nose instead of deeply through the nose, eating too hastily and overeating, "slouching" instead of standing and walking in an erect attitude, using unnecessary stimulants, failing to exterminate the pestiferous housefly, which goes blithely about carrying the germs of disease; sleeping in ill ventilated rooms and failing to protect food from flies and other insects by proper screening.—Philadelphia Press.

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It is so well known because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in over-coming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pains in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and I will send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., One Hundred and Ninety-Five, Binghamton, N.Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N.Y., on every bottle.

ON CANADIAN FARMS.

Where Women Do All the Rough Work of Dairying.

If there is any branch of farm work more than another to which women can apply themselves with beneficial effect and without detriment to their natural qualities it is to dairying. From very early times the dairy has been looked upon as belonging to the domain of women's work, and, though, as is proper, the rougher duties of milking and milking the cows are generally in the hands of men, women are invariably supreme in the handling of the produce that passes through the dairy on its way to the table. From the force of circumstances women take an ever more prominent part in the work of the dairy in Canada than in our own country. Not only are the indoor duties mostly performed by the female members of the household, but because of the scarcity of and the high wages commanded by male laborers

THE MILK SEPARATOR AT WORK—CREAM COMES FROM THE PEER.

They also apply themselves to the more arduous operations that belong to the category of out of door work. The illustration conveys some idea of the active part which women take in the dairy work of Canada, and the remarkable development of dairying, and especially cheese-making, in the Dominion testifies to the efficiency of their efforts in this sphere of usefulness and affords convincing proof of the fitness of women to engage with profit to themselves and benefit to the nation in the general work of the dairy.

Here's a Way to Save.

American housewives are slow to learn that the tomato paste found at Italian groceries is an economy in cooking whenever tomato sauce or flavoring is wanted. A ten cent can of paste contains many times its bulk in the whole vegetable since the water is evaporated from it. A family which depends upon the paste for everything that calls for tomatoes, excepting the real vegetable flavoring, cooks macaroni in this way: The macaroni is first boiled tender in salted water. Then it is put into the upper part of a double boiler with a cupful or so of boiling water, a teaspoonful of tomato paste, finely minced Spanish sweet pepper and a little curly powder and cooked nearly half an hour. Parmesan cheese in a separate dish is served with it. Another way is to make a tomato sauce in the usual way and add to it minced green or Spanish red peppers and turn it over the macaroni.

See Foam Candy.

Put three cups of light brown sugar, a cup of water and a tablespoonful of vinegar into a saucepan. Heat gradually to the boiling point, stirring only until the sugar is dissolved. Then boil without stirring until the mixture forms a hard ball when tested in cold water.

Remove from the fire and when it stops bubbling pour the mixture into the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs, beating constantly. Beat until it becomes quite stiff, then add a cup of chopped nut meats. Drop from a spoon on buttered tins.

Kentucky School Teachers and Normal Training.

Present and prospective teachers of Breckinridge and adjoining counties are invited to consider the new Normal Department of Kingswood College.

Special up-to-date normal training is offered here under particularly favorable environments.

Normal students have advantages of good musical instruction, good Literary Societies, and the inspiration and stimulus of advanced college associations; and, in addition, will be allowed one or more studies in the collegiate department—free of charge.

Our second term begins January 1, 1910. Much of this term will be devoted to the preparation of teachers for practical work in the common schools.

The principal of this department seeks to find out wherein each pupil is deficient, then to supply the needed help.

Persons who do well the normal work at Kingswood, may expect to pass in the county and state examinations, and to succeed in the profession of teaching.

We do no cramming here, but good, honest and thorough work. Tuition in this department ($20), twenty dollars per term.

IN ARTISTIC DEN.

Comfortable Way to Furnish Living Room for The Winter.

A DIVAN-LIKE COUCH.

By Bash Curtains of Chesapeake Charming—Every Article of Furniture Should Convey Idea of Warmth as Well as Comfort.

Red and green are the two colors most appropriate for a den, and if cannot afford to have leather furniture in these shades upholstered in an oriental effects would be an excellent choice. Every article of furniture in the room should convey the idea of usefulness as well as comfort, for that reason chairs should be a sofa should be piled with cushions and there should be one or more substantial in appearance and plenty of space for smoking materials, books, work or for whatever one care to place on them.

The walls of such a den a wall of soft, dull red would be suitable. A fireplace is not desirable. This extensive and outworn paper, tapestries, drapes, window, etc., be finished either in dark oak shagbark.

The floor is not so much to be finished with shagbark or varnish if it be covered with some plain material like the carpet substitutes, some like wash like oilcloth. These chairs should be of a few or in room and are made in many colors. Then there are "pill-top" chairs have the upholstered seats of shagbark. Whatever is chosen should be entire. Figures on the floor of a den are not appropriate, except in rugs, if taken for granted that rugs be used.

The windows in a den are near a large oblong or round table be placed near them and books, a lamp or drop light, a tray and the numberless articles which are constantly in such a room should be placed near the table, where they can be seen close if wished, should be more large chairs, as well as two little ones that can be easily to the light.

Such of the divan type is always in a corner, for the wall against it rests supplies a back, but in to protect this wall a piece of derry in a bold figured design be stretched and attached with tacks at a sufficient height to be portable to the width of the couch, impossible to tell just what this old saying that the top edge be about four feet from the surface of the den.

There is space in the room, at least small tables should be put in. Tabourets, of course, are particularly adapted to this use and ally moved. They may be of wood that appears in the finish or inlaid with mother-of-pearl can afford.

He walks many or few pictures placed, according to the taste of the occupant, but nothing is suggestive of lightness of touch. That is, delicate gilt frames and other dainty would be out of keeping, but, as they do, to boudoirs and the rack is ornamental when not useful. Bases and ornaments, jars, bowls, lamps, are well suited to the mantelpiece wherever bric-a-brac may be.

For such a room should be bright and not longer than just the window sills. Heavy chesapeake effect; burly and heavy, light in effect, and pongee are a wide home across the bottom the best finish. If hung on brass rings and put on light rods they may be drawn during evening and will be artistic as well as useful.

INCREASED COST OF LIVING.

Secretary Wilson Making Extended Inquiry Through Field Employees.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, who helped the country to find out "what is whisky," is now directing his attention to the question, "Why is the cost of living greater?"

Mr. Wilson, through the hundreds of field employees of his department, is attempting to ascertain what the difference is between retail and wholesale prices for foodstuffs. He desires to know, it was declared, why the cost of food to the consumer is greater and whether the farmer, the middleman or the retail merchant is to blame. The inquiry is directed toward the increased prices of butter, eggs, milk, apples, potatoes and other common or garden fruits and vegetables. Secretary Wilson began this inquiry because he did not believe that the farmers of the country were receiving higher prices than they should get for their products, as had been said by many so-called authorities who wished to explain the higher cost of living. It was asserted that he believed the middlemen are responsible for the higher prices.

Recently Mr. Wilson made an investigation into the reported higher cost of meat. He found, according to his annual report, that the mean gross profits in selling meats to the ultimate consumer were 35 per cent and that in some cities this percentage was as high as 68. This meant, the report said, that the cost to consumers was 35 to 68 per cent above the price the retailer paid to the wholesale merchant.

The same sources of information which were relied on to gather the data on meat were directed to the investigation into the prices of other foodstuffs. This investigation the secretary regarded as most important and it was pointed out that he expected to find whether there is a combination to raise retail prices or the distribution of foodstuffs is done in a way that is too expensive. It was said that congressional action may be necessary later.

Plan to Aid Mine Workers.

With the assistance of mine operators the Young Men's Christian association in eastern Pennsylvania has begun a campaign to establish mining institutes throughout the anthracite region. Bases of operation are being established at several points. One of the principal objects of this movement is to afford opportunities to the designers in large numbers who, for the most part, are untrained in mining and ignorant of the English language. C. L. Fay, the organization's mining secretary, says that meetings held at Carbonate, Scranton, Wilkesbarre and other cities and towns have been unusually successful. In the southern district the Philadelphia and Reading company runs special trains for employees to attend the meetings.

KINDERGARTEN BOOTS.

How to Make a Pretty Pair of Baby's First Boots.

A dainty pair of baby's boots can be made easily and quite inexpensively in the following way:

First cut out your silk lining in exact shape of pattern shown, adding a little straight strip to form back part of shoe. Take your ribbon and sew them along the top of material, using your colors alternately, cutting the length of ribbon to size of material. Then plait in and out from side to side (see Fig. 1), which will form little squares in the shades of ribbon chosen. Pale pink, blue and white look very dainty. Bind round all the edges with a wider white ribbon, the binding being useful to finish off the work and also in stitching the soles to the uppers, enabling one to make a very neat job.

Any bootmaker will cut a pair of soles out of soft white kid. When the boot is put together, finish off with an

House Names In Holland.

A recent traveler in that land of dikes and windmills has been at pains to make notes of the names bestowed by the Dutch merchants upon their country houses. Here are a few examples translated: "Our Contentment," "Joy and Peace," "Leisure and Happiness," "My Desire Is Satisfied," "Friends and Quiet," "My Wife and I," "Not So Bad." To say the least, any one of these would seem to indicate more of the genuine sentiment of the householder than can possibly be expressed by the "Belle Vue" and "Cedars" of England.—London Mail.

THE BLUE WHALE.

A Monster Skeleton That is Eighty-seven Feet in Length.

What is claimed as the largest animal in the world is represented by a colossal skeleton in the museum of Christchurch, New Zealand, says the London Globe. This is the remains of a large specimen of the blue whale stranded on the coast of that country. This whale is probably the largest of all living animals. The length of the skeleton is eighty-seven feet, and the head alone is twenty-one feet. The weight of the bones is estimated at nine tons. This gigantic whale gets its name of blue whale from the dark bluish gray of its upper surface. The tinge of yellow on its lower part has led to the name "sulphur bottom," by which it is known on the western side of the Atlantic. It is otherwise known as Sibbald's rorqual (Balenoptera sibbaldii).

The chief food of this gigantic animal is a small marine crustacean (Thysanopoda termis), known to the whalers as "krill." Another species of the same shrimplike group has been obtained in thousands from the stomachs of mackerel caught on the Cornish coast. The nearly related opossum shrimps found in enormous numbers in the Greenland seas form the chief food of the common whale. Some of the thysanopoda are phosphorescent and contribute to the luminosity of the sea.

After the Show.

A well dressed man, said to be an Englishman, has been arrested in Montmartre, Paris, on a charge of tendering half sovereigns for dinners and entertainments, which reminds us of the story about the touring company which has been doing very bad business in "the smalls." While the proprietor and sole responsible manager was standing about the temporary theater (the Corn Exchange) a very small boy with a very large melon arrived and proposed to barter the fruit for a seat in the gallery. The bargain was duly concluded, and the scene now changes to the interior of the theater after the performance. "Boy," says the manager severely, "that melon was rotten." "That's all right," says the boy, "but I didn't eat it." "What did you do with it?" "I sold it to a fellow in the gallery."

LANDES SHEPHERDS.

French Peasants Who Are Experts in Walking on Stilts.

There is a vast district in France where the entire community goes about and transacts its business on stilts. This district is called "Les Landes."

The inhabitants, who are among the poorest peasants in France, gain their subsistence by fishing, by such little agriculture as is possible and by keeping cows and sheep. The shepherds make use of their stilts for two purposes—first, because walking is quite impossible on account of the sage and undergrowth of brush, and second, because the height of their stilts gives them a greater range of vision.

The stilts generally are about six or seven feet high. Near the top there is a support for the foot, which has a strong stirrup and strap, and still nearer the top a band of leather fastens the stilt firmly to the leg just below the knee. Some stilts, especially those made for fancy walking and for tricks, are even higher than seven feet, and the man who uses these—and he must be an expert—can travel as fast as ten miles an hour. The lower end of this kind of stilt is cupped with a sleep bone to prevent its splitting.

Some of these Landes shepherds are wonderfully clever in the management of their stilts. They run races, step or jump over brooks, clear fences and walls and are able to keep their balance and equilibrium while stooping to the ground to pick up pellets or to gather wild flowers. They fall prone upon their faces and assume very perpendicular without an effort and in a single moment after they have thus prostrated themselves.—Technical World Magazine.

A VICTIM OF WORRY.

The Man Who Is Always Expecting Some Kind of Trouble.

There is always a cloud on his face because he is constantly expecting that something is going to happen. There is going to be a slump in business, or he is going to have a loss, or somebody is trying to undermine him, or he is worried about his health, or fears his children will be sick or go wrong or be killed in this or that way.

In other words, although he has achieved quite a remarkable success, yet he has never really had a happy day in his life. All the time he has been chasing rainbows, thinking if he could only get a little further on, a little higher up, he would be happy, but he is just as far from it as when a boy.

I believe this condition has all come from the habit of unhappiness which he formed during his hard boyhood, and which he has never been able to overcome. He has learned to look for trouble, to expect it, and he gets it. I have told him just many a time. He has a beautiful home, a very charming wife, a most delightful family, but there is always the same cloud on his face, the same expression of anxiety, of unhappiness, of foreboding.

A little properly directed training in his boyhood would have changed his whole career, and he would have been a happy, joyous, harmonious man instead of being discontent and unhappy. There is everything in starting right. What is put into the first life is put into the whole of life.—Success Magazine.

Self Control.

The self control of the Japanese, even in times of the utmost stress, and their courtesy, which begets quietness and discretion, are both brought out by a writer in St. Paul's Magazine.

"Cry. It will do you good," I said once to a poor Japanese woman who, crouching beside her dying husband, was controlling herself with an effort that would, I feared, make her ill. She laid her little slim brown finger upon her trembling red lip and shook her head, then whispered, "It might disturb him."

"Cry. It will do you good," I said the next day, when the man was dead and she seemed almost prostrate with grief and overworked self control. "It would be most rude to make a hideous noise before the sacred dead," came the soft reply.

Bread and Pips Baker.

The lecturer at the cooking school sometimes enlivened her remarks with an anecdote.

"The eighteenth century baker," she said, "was a pipe cleaner as well, just as the barber a little earlier was a surgeon. Everybody in those days smoked clay pipes, provided the same as cups or spoons by the coffee houses. Well, each morning a waiter carried his master's stock of pipes, some hundred perhaps, to the nearest bakery. The baker would boil them, then dip them in liquid lime, then bake them dry. They came out of the oven as sweet and white as new."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Degrees of Hunger.

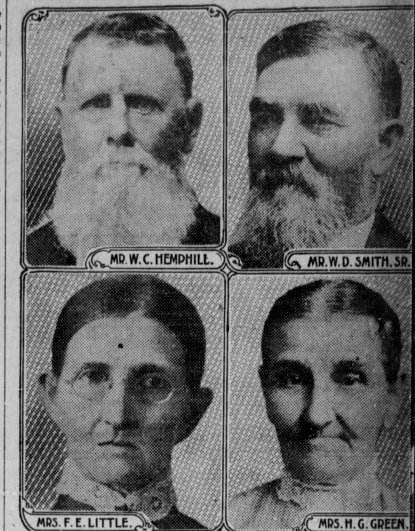

"I'm simply starving!" cried the short story writer at the Hungry club. "I wish they'd begin dinner."

"I never saw you when you weren't starving," said the poet. "I'm never as hungry as you are, though," the short story writer declared, "because I write prose."—New York Press.

Good Imagination.

Teddy, after having a drink of plain soda water, was asked how he liked it. "Not very well," he replied. "It tastes too much as though my foot had gone asleep in my mouth."—Success Magazine.

STAUNCH FRIENDS OF PE-RU-NA

Grandmothers and Grandfathers Who Believe in Pe-ru-na.

"I CAN recommend Peruna as a good medicine for chronic catarrh of the stomach and bowels. I have been troubled with it severely for over a year, and also a cough."

"Now my cough is all gone, and all the distressing symptoms of catarrh of the stomach and bowels have disappeared."

"I will recommend it to all as a rare remedy."—Mrs. F. E. Little, Toledo, Ill.

"I HAD catarrh of the stomach, bowels and lower internal organs. Had a great deal of pain in my right hip, which felt like rheumatism. Also, pain in my internal organs. The water was highly colored, my back was weak, was constipated, and very restless."

"I commenced to take Peruna according to directions, and began to improve. I have taken ten bottles of Peruna and think I am cured."—Mr. W. C. Hemphill, Louisville, Miss.

"I had catarrh for twelve years, was not able to be up all day, but she is helping with the work and has gone on a visit. Her husband is improved in general. No disease. Good appetite. Sleeps well and is well."

"BY following your instructions in taking your Peruna and Ma I am cured of catarrh."

"I had catarrh for twelve years, quite a bad cough so I could not get to sleep. I do not have any cough, I feel anything in the throat I swallow of Peruna and I am all right."

We have now been a bank in this county nineteen and one-half years. We have grown from a small beginning, a large and successful business. We have endeavored to keep abreast of the times, providing for ourselves every modern appliance and up-to-date system to facilitate our work, providing for our depositors every safe guard known for their protection and security. We have given freely to every deserving charity, and contributed liberally to every public enterprise. We enjoy the confidence of the people of this county and take this opportunity to thank our patrons who have contributed to make the year 1909 the best in our history.

Very respectfully, M. H. Beard, Cashier
